

FREE VIRTUAL CLE/CEU

REASONABLE EFFORTS:

Overview of the Law and Fiscal Implications

OCTOBER 20, 2022
12 - 1 PM

The concept of reasonable efforts is a fundamental component in every Child in Need of Care (CINC) case. The Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) has the burden of demonstrating reasonable efforts to prevent or eliminate the need for removal and to finalize the permanent plan for the child if the child is removed. The judge is required to make written and individualized reasonable efforts findings at the Continued Custody, Disposition, and Permanency Hearings.

Submitted for 1 hour CLE/CEU.

AGENDA & SCHEDULE

12:00 - 12:25pm	Reasonable Efforts Law, Requirements, Finding, and Examples
12:25 - 12:45pm	Title IV-E Reimbursement Nuts and Bolts
12:45 - 1:00pm	Questions and Answers and Closing

At this virtual CLE/CEU, the presenters will address important questions often raised by stakeholders:

- What is the basis for making reasonable efforts?
- What are some examples of reasonable efforts to prevent removal and to finalize the permanent plan?
- What does reasonable efforts mean for the children and families being served?
- Under what circumstances does DCFS risk losing Title IV-E reimbursement if reasonable efforts are not made?
- What happens to Title IV-E reimbursement when a “no reasonable efforts” finding is made?

Objectives

- Learn the law and reasonable efforts findings that must be made at Child in Need of Care Hearings.
- Gain familiarity with types of reasonable efforts to be made by the Department of Children and Family Services.
- Understand the specific relationship between Title IV-E reimbursement and reasonable efforts findings at the different junctures of the case.
